Welcome

We are a specialist boutique British manufacturer of solid brass door and window products, including the original iconic Princess and Constable Collections, along with custom accessories for electrical applications and bathrooms.

With a unique range of Collections dating back to architectural periods in the early 16th Century we offer a uniquely extensive range of Period, Heritage and Contemporary Door Furniture made from the purest Brass all hand worked, polished and finished on site... in England.

We work with professional and private clients worldwide to create elegant door and window furniture products for royal palaces, super yachts, stately homes and high specification private residences.

Here and on our website you can learn more about us, the work we do and how we can help you add those finishing touches of elegance

Our Timeline of Architectural Styles

Welcome to our Collections architectural timeline!

We are in a privileged position to be able to showcase to you our range of period, heritage, classic and contemporary Collections including the original iconic Princess and Constable Collections.

All of our Collections make reference to a particular historical architectural style, helping you choose the right finishing touches to your home.

Within our Collections you will find a number of product types so that you can add that luxury touch, not only to your doors!

A Brief History

Contemporary architecture is definable broadly as the building style of the present day. Examples do not necessarily have similar or easily recognisable features, however, because the “style” is really quite varied and has a number of different influences.

Although people sometimes use the terms “contemporary” and “modern” architecture interchangeably, they technically are not synonymous. Modern architecture refers to the building style of the early to mid-20th century. It featured clean lines with an emphasis on function. Some people viewed the elements that characterised modern architecture as too cold and impersonal. This belief led to the creation of the contemporary style as is recognised today. Like the modern style, it connects indoor and outdoor spaces, but it adds some personal touches and warmth throughout the living space. Contemporary homes typically include an irregular or unusually shaped frame, an open floor plan, oversized windows, and the use of “green” and repurposed components. Such homes also often have an organic design, fitting into the surrounding space and meeting an immediate need in the area.

Bamboo (Bambuseae) is a tribe of flowering perennial evergreen plants in the grass family Poaceae. Anji County of China, known as the “Town of Bamboo”, provides the optimal climate and soil conditions to grow, harvest, and process some of the most valued bamboo poles available worldwide.

Bamboo, one of the “Four Gentlemen” (bamboo, orchid, plum blossom and chrysanthemum), plays such an important role in traditional Chinese culture that it is even regarded as a behaviour model of the gentleman. As bamboo has some features such as uprightness, tenacity and hollow heart, people endow bamboo with integrity, elegance and plainness, though it is not physically strong. It is these characteristics which led to its use in architecture.

We have created a Collection of products all hand crafted and forged or cast from premium grade solid brass also covering door handles, door knobs and a range of other accessories, all reflecting the organic theme of this era.

All Bamboo products are available in our extensive range of surface patinations. See our Finishes page to find out more.

All BrassArt products are available in any of our finishes. All finishes are either electroplated, un-lacquered living finishes or lacquered.

A ‘*’ denotes the product is lacquered. Products can be un-lacquered on request; a wax finish is preferable here.

Colour and texture variation is inherent in the creation of hand finished patinas; and once installed, touch, time and environment should lead to gradual wear and oxidization, lending character and elegance.
